

Mic-Chipp Hunt Answers

1. The biggest Pathfinder sign on the island is the backstop at the ball field.
2. The letters in the square spell out "A navel is a something-y button." The "something" is "bell." It led to the bell tower.
3. Ping pong is the other sport that uses paddles.
4. The T's refer to the tee board at the swim dock.
5. The "white socks lost today" would come to the coffin, where we hope they would not stay too long.
6. The silhouettes are of a shoe and a horse. The clue led to the horseshoe pits.
7. You can spot "Lance" in the letters of "a gLANCE."
8. The five separated holes suggest the small men's fort.
9. Substitute "canoes" for "can ooze." The clue led to the canoe dock, where you will, indeed, see a lot of red.
10. The flags "get up" twenty minutes after the Mics and Chipps do, and they come down three hours before Mic and Chipp taps.

The bonus message, pieced together from the letters on the back of the ten colored treasures, was PN TN BAT HAS NOTHING MISSING (FOUR TIMES, IN FACT). Replace the four missing zeroes to spell PONTOON BOAT.
